

Sackett's Porch Music Fest

September 15, 2018

12 - 6 PM

A late summer day, a soothing breeze and music in Sackett Harbor is heard throughout the community from some of the North Country's most historic porches. The Sackett Harbor PorchFest is a quaint throwback to the days of sitting on your porch, rocking in your chair and tapping your feet to the music.

PorchFest music festivals began about a decade ago as a means for communities to highlight the various musicians of their area by offering them front porches as stages. Bands, singers, and instrumentalists participate in the festival to showcase their talents and to engage the audiences throughout the community.

The one-day FREE event features a diverse lineup of homegrown musicians coming together with the efforts of local neighbors and with audiences, both local and from surrounding areas, to create and celebrate a sense of community.

"Music is the universal language of mankind." — H.W. Longfellow

For more information, register as a musician, volunteer your porch/yard as a location or to be a volunteer for the event, check out the Sackett Harbor Historical Society Website at:
